Stylos Conference 'Projective Landscape'

16-17 March, 2006

Faculty of Architecture, Delft University of Technology

Berlageweg 1, Delft, the Netherlands

SHORT

The conference is organized by Stylos, the student organization of the Faculty of Architecture. Stylos has a history of organizing internationally recognized conferences such as The Invisible in Architecture (1988), Context and Modernity (1990), and the most direct predecessor of this conference, The Critical Landscape (1995). In a similar format, The Projective Landscape will revolve around defining a field, or 'landscape,' of current debate more closely. In preparation, a group of students has spent a year reading various sources on critical theory and the ensuing debate on the 'projective' or the 'post-critical'. A special issue of the publication Pantheon is devoted to this conference. The conference will address current developments within the architectural debate and stimulate transatlantic discussion. Internationally renowned architecture critics and architects are invited to investigate and clarify the definition of 'projective practice'.
